

Brent Knoll Primary School Newsletter

Friday, 31st January 2025

Dear Parents/Carers: Yesterday, Mrs Latham, with colleagues from Somerset Council and the Wessex Trust, held a successful afternoon tea in order to provide some support for parents of children with additional needs. We know it can be difficult to get help exactly at the right time, but if you are in need of support, whether it's for your child's learning or to access vouchers for the local food bank, please do ask. Kind regards
Chris Burman

Current school attendance is 94.9%.
Well done to the group of children who have still made 100% this year.

The members of Russet and Ashton classes enjoyed a Victorian-themed school day today (photos above and below) – and they looked fantastic. In recent days, the children have found out about the lives of their Victorian ancestors, discovering the hardships of work in the factories and of school days. There has also been time to look at the life and work of Victorian artist and designer, William Morris.

Pippin Class celebrated the Lunar New Year on Thursday by cooking spring rolls (photo left), using lots of tasty, fresh vegetables and filo pastry. Evelyn had been really busy at home and built her own celebratory new year dragon (photo left).

With 90 responses to our recent communication survey (details above), it was interesting to see that email (46%) and the weekly newsletter (40%) are so much more popular as the preferred means for receiving non-urgent school news than Facebook (11%) - and a barely registering Instagram (3%). Thank you to everyone who contributed as it helps inform what we do.
